Partner with us

The European Congress of Psychology (ECP) provides a platform for scientists, practitioners, educators, policy makers, and students from around the globe to come together to share their latest insights and forge new partnerships. The ECP is an opportunity for the European Federation of Psychologists' Associations (EFPA) to identify and showcase ways in which psychological science contributes to addressing societal challenges faced in Europe and beyond.

Supporting the ECP 2025 provides the opportunity to contribute to helping to finding solutions, building relationships, and reaching common goals. It also gives organizations the possibility to demonstrate their engagement with and building a commitment to EFPA's work. With your partnership, we look forward to building momentum to raising awareness of the importance of reaching societal goals and making the ECP 2025 an international success.

Sincerely,

Eleni Karayianni, Psy.D.
Chair, ECP 2025

Briefly on EFPA

EFPA is the umbrella organization in Europe for national psychologists' associations and currently comprises associations from 37 European countries, including all 27 member countries of the European Union.

Founded in 1981 EFPA has a long tradition of developing psychology (by enhancing scientific and professional standards), contributing to society (by using psychological knowledge and competences in support in particular of the UN sustainable development goals) and serving psychologists (by advancing, promoting and protecting the profession of psychologists at the national and European levels).

EFPA has a network of some 400,000 psychologists through its Full Members (professional practitioner psychologists and researchers) and many stakeholders including Associate Members which exists to promote a particular domain of psychology as education, science, and/or profession or support a particular group of Psychologists or students or teachers of psychology.

EFPA is a partner in many EU Commission funded research and development projects. EFPA sets a European standard of education, professional training and competence in psychology, EuroPsy.

EFPA is a non-governmental organisation in Special Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations since 2017. Find out more about EFPA's strategy and aims.

Briefly on the host organization

The Cyprus Psychologists' Association (CYPSA) is a scientific and professional organization founded in 1980. Originally, its vision is to develop, safeguard, and promote psychological science in Cyprus. CYPSA's mission is the development and promotion of psychological scientific knowledge within the professional world and the greater public of Cyprus; the education of the public on topics pertaining to psychology; and the promotion and safeguard of the psychologist profession. The Association functions as a communication forum for psychologists both in practice and in academia, as well as between psychology and society. CYPSA actively participates and contributes through its membership in policy making and action at the local and national levels in many areas including education, health, human rights, and many other key societal issues.

CYPSA has been a Member Association of the European Federation of Psychologists' Associations (EFPA) since 1995, and of the European Federation of Psychology Students' Associations (EFPSA) since 2007.

Briefly on the European Congress of Psychology

In promoting the development and application of psychology in Europe and beyond, EFPA organises the European Congress of Psychology (ECP). It is the place where European psychology presents itself and where psychologists from Europe and from other continents can meet and share knowledge. The ECP is organized by a national Full Member of EFPA under the auspices of and in collaboration with EFPA. It is held in another European country every two years.

Since the first congress in Amsterdam in 1989 the ECP has grown in magnitude and reputation. By now it is known all over the world as the place where European psychology presents itself and where psychologists from Europe and from other continents can meet and share knowledge.

Comprehending all areas of psychology and covering the whole of Europe, the ECP provides participants – whether psychologists, students, educators, policy makers and others with an interest in psychology – with a unique opportunity to inform themselves about the state of the art in psychology as a science and a profession.
